

And of Clay We Are Created

by Isabel Allende

A devastating avalanche results in thousands of deaths. In the short story, a newscaster attempts to rescue a thirteen-year-old girl trapped in mud. Despite numerous attempts, he cannot save the young girl. Grief fills the newsreporter's heart when the young girl dies hours short of escape. In the end, the reporter spends time processing the tragic event of losing Azucena and what she takes away is.
